수업내용	Increasing numbers of people agree that learning cultural sensitivity is an essential part of professional development, whichever field one might pursue. This course is designed to familiarize students with circumstances where sensitivities to critical difference, meaning, ways of life, and processes of negotiation help understand and facilitate work conditions of various kinds.
수업목표	This term, we would focus on two main issues: first is that of humanitarianism, and second is the issue of humanitarian intervention, which is one of the very important roles that international organizations play, as well as state governments and NGOs. Other issues that we would focus on would be introduced on a weekly basis.
선수과목(필수)	Introductory to Anthropology or International Relations (but not required)
인용문헌	Each week, students are expected to read the assignments and prepare for 5-10 min. presentation before the main lecture & in-class discussion starts. The most presentation, 1-2 students every week, is part of the class participation requirements. We also "read aloud" each week, in an effort to link the in-class readings with realities of Korean society. Research papers based on students' own field visits are highly encouraged.
평가방법	Students can choose any topic covered in class and write 20-24 page long research paper by the end of the term. There would be one written exam to cover the assigned readings. Evaluation will be based on class participation (30%), exam (20%), and paper (50%). One of the class participation requirements is a written homework.
교재	Chapters from the following books: World on Fire, Humanitarian Intervention, Culture & Public Action, Peoples & States, Citizenship Debates, Citizenship Today, Losing Control, Culture and World Politics, Framing Confessions: The Violence Within, Human Rights in Global Perspective, Essential Confessions, Anthropology in the Margins of the State, Communities in Cyberspace, Life, Online, Optional: Ethnography in Unsettled Times, Culture as History, Table of Representations
