Course Objective

After finishing this course, the student:

- is able to identify the Peace Church Perspective by exploring different systematic theological themes (for example Ecclesiology, Trinitarian Theology, Christology, Pneumatology, Eschatology).
- has insight in a variety of theological writings from XVI century Anabaptism to XXI century theologians and how those approaches relate to each other and to wider ecumenical discussions.
- acknowledges the relation between theology and ethics from a Peace Church Perspective and is able to apply it to contextual discussions.
- is able to formulate judgments on the basis of the given information, taking into account the societal and ethical responsibilities involved.
- is able to communicate conclusions growing out of the knowledge, motives and arguments in a clear manner.
- will be able to perform independently and follow-up on his/her studies.

Course Content

During the course, the distinctive Peace Church Perspective in doing theology will be presented and discussed. Topics that will be studied from this perspective include Ecclesiology, Trinitarian Theology, Christology, Pneumatology, Eschatology. In the sessions, historical approaches (specially XVI Century) on these different theological topics will be presented and discussed. These perspectives will be then compared with XX and XXI Century approaches from the Peace Church Perspective. Emphasis will be given to how the Peace Church Perspective has related ecumenically as well as to current societal relevant issues.
